This document sets out how Callywith College embeds Prevent within our organisation.

It provides the framework on how to assess and deal with prevent vulnerabilities at the college with due regard to the need to prevent students from being drawn into terrorism.

Background to Prevent

The Prevent strategy and duty (originally launched in June 2011) is an integral part of the Counter Terrorism Strategy (CONTEST). Its aim is to stop individuals from becoming, or being drawn into, promoting or supporting terrorism. It is regularly revised and updated by the government.

The Counter Terrorism and Security Act introduced in 2015 includes provision to place the Prevent element of the National Counter Terrorism Strategy on a statutory footing. This has implications for colleges, schools, universities and councils.

Prevent addresses all forms of terrorism but continues to prioritise according to the threats pose to our national security.

Preventing terrorism will mean challenging extremist (and non-violent) ideas that are also part of a terrorist's ideology. Prevent also means intervening to try to stop people moving from extremist groups or extremism into terrorist-related activity.

The three Prevent objectives are:

- Respond to the ideological challenge of terrorism and the threat we receive from those who promote it.
 - By teaching and learning which helps students and staff to develop the knowledge and skills to challenge extremist narratives and behaviours.

- Prevent people from being drawn into terrorism by intervening to ensure they are given appropriate advice and support.
 - Identifying how to prevent harm to students by individuals, groups or others who promote terrorism and violent extremism. Provide programmes or support to students who are vulnerable. That includes those who might be struggling with a sense of identity or belonging, those becoming distanced from their cultural or religious background and those having family issues or experiencing poor mental health or discrimination. It could also include those who have difficulty in interacting socially or who might be lacking in empathy.

- Support Sectors and Institutions where there are risks of radicalisation.
 - Increasing the resilience of our college community by encouraging engagement with management, staff and students through training and awareness.
 - Encourage staff training and use curriculum/tutorial opportunities for students which allow grievances to be aired & dealt with.
 - Ensure that college resources are not used by extremist groups.

How can schools and colleges help?

Colleges promote and facilitate the exchange of opinion and ideas and enable debate as well as learning. The Government has stated that it has no wish to limit or otherwise interfere with this free flow of ideas, and that it will be careful to balance the need to preserve national security with protecting civil liberties.

Although it is vital that colleges must protect academic freedom, it is a long-established principle that colleges also have a duty of care to their students. Colleges, college societies and student groups have a clear and unambiguous role to play in helping to safeguard vulnerable young people from radicalisation and recruitment by terrorist organisations.

Colleges can play an important part in preventing terrorism. Just as they can help to educate people about risk, colleges offer opportunities to help learners understand the risks associated with extremism and help develop the knowledge and skills to be able to challenge terrorist ideologies.

Staff in colleges working in partnership with other local agencies are well placed to identify needs and support the welfare of individual students who may be particularly vulnerable.

What support is available for people at risk of becoming involved in extremism?

'Channel' offers help and guidance to people who may be at risk of becoming involved in extremism. Extremist organisations sometimes try to recruit people who are susceptible or vulnerable, in person or through the internet. If the early signs are spotted and acted upon, it safeguards the person concerned and helps protect us all. Concerns that an individual may be vulnerable to radicalisation does not mean that you think the person is a terrorist; it means that you are concerned that they are prone to being exploited by others.

It is important that staff trust their professional judgement. If they are concerned that someone is at risk of getting involved in extremism, they should in the first instance contact the Safeguarding Lead (DSL or DDSL) who should if required contact their Channel Co-ordinator. They will, in partnership with other safeguarding professionals, investigate further to assess the nature and extent of the risk and the Channel Panel will develop the most appropriate support package for the individual concerned. Channel is voluntary and people who are referred must give consent, via parent or guardian if they are under 18.

What training is available?

Training is available for staff whose work may bring them into contact with people who may be vulnerable to becoming involved in extremism.

The Workshop to Raise Awareness of Prevent (WRAP) is an introduction to Prevent and covers issues such as crime, normal social processes that are used to influence and manipulate, extreme right-wing and Al Qaida case studies, terrorist ideologies and factors which may contribute to an individual's susceptibility to a terrorist ideology.

This workshop provides attendees with:

- An awareness and understanding of the Prevent agenda and their role within it
- The ability to use existing expertise and professional judgement to recognise potentially vulnerable individuals who may be susceptible to messages of violence
- The confidence to use a common-sense-based response to support and intervene with vulnerable people

The College has access to WRAP trainers, and all staff attend this along with Safeguarding Tier 2 training as mandatory. There is also home office approved 'Prevent' and 'Channel' on-line training available and accessible to all staff.

Managing Risks and Responding to Events

The risk assessment and action plan below are designed to ensure that the college monitors risk and is ready to deal appropriately with issues which arise to achieve the following outcomes:

- Understanding the nature of the threat from extremism and how this may impact directly or indirectly on the college.
- Understanding and managing potential risks within the college and from external influences.
- Understanding the nature of the threat from extremism and how this may impact directly or indirectly on the college.
- Respond appropriately to events in local, national or international news that may impact on students and communities.

- Ensuring measures are in place to minimise the potential for acts of violent extremism.
- Ensuring plans are in place to respond appropriately to a threat or incident within the college.

The college Prevent Lead, when annually undertaking this risk assessment and disseminating with colleagues at the college, aims to raise awareness of the Prevent Strategy to enable the college to better safeguard its students and staff. Also;

- To assist in understanding and identifying vulnerability to radicalisation
- To outline the role the college can play
- To link 'Prevent' with safety, security vulnerability and safeguarding
- To inform about activities and resources available for use in colleges

The annual review/ inter-agency work with local organisations throughout the year aims to assess the following Prevent threats:

- Threat posed by local groups
- Past and present activity
- Recent high-profile terrorist and extremist cases
- How these groups target vulnerable people
- What do these groups want to achieve both locally and internationally
- The specific risks to the organisation
